The structure of the UN Security Council

Submitted by the Danish Social Liberal Youth Party (RU)

Noting that:

- The current structure of the United Nations Security Council consists of five permanent members and ten rotating temporary members. This has been the case since 1945.
- The world order consists of several powerful actors. Most of them are national states, but we might be seeing a shift towards key regional actors gaining more influence.

Believing that:

- As the world changes, so should the structure of vital organs in the United Nations.
- There could be plenty of arguments to let other states have permanent seats – or to dismiss the principle of permanent seats.

The International Federation of Liberal Youth (IFLRY) calls for:

- The United Nations to renegotiate the terms of permanent seats in the Security Council.
- The United Nations to consider other nations or regional key actors to achieve permanent seats in the Security Council.
