

My name is Ahmad Al Rachwani, from Lebanon.

Two years ago, I was proudly elected as the Vice President of IFLRY. And it was only the starting point of a long fruitful journey. I spent my term working for the best of our organization and claiming for democracy, freedom of expression and gender equality.

Lots of meetings, seminars with IFLRY and great people from all around the globe From the MENA region to Europe, the Balkans, Eastern Europe, Northern of America to Latin America all of that increased my knowledge and enhanced my experience.

By evaluating these years, I can't not to highlight the impressive role of IFLRY, this solid international organization, along with the amazing member organizations that I had the pleasure to work with and looking forward for more work.

But here I don't think that my job is done yet, my experience made me realize and see some things that we can do to improve our work, and for sure taking in consideration most of the points noted from our MO's in the GA's and the EC's. And knowing the fact that I can give more to IFLRY, having the time and the availability and the commitment, I will run again for IFLRY Vice president, thanking of course my organization for their support and trust.
