

IFLRY – Free Trade Programme is seeking new Team Members!

Trade has come under fierce attack from a new breed of populists around the world. But as Liberals we argue that there is compelling evidence to make a strong case for free trade as a win-win policy. But of course, what kind of free trade is most conducive to the Liberal vision is up to much debate.

Therefore, IFLRY Free Trade Programme has two functions:

- encourage internal debate in order to equip IFLRY MOs as more informed and better debaters on the trade issues
- promote the Liberal case for free trade through various public campaigns

Team Members will have a wide array of opportunities to make the Free Trade Programme a real success. TMs can...

- participate in drafting an Action Plan for 2016-2017, shaping the future of the programme
- submit proposals to the World Trade Organisation's (WTO) calls on various items
- (co-)organise fringe sessions at IFLRY GA, seminars, training and/or study trips
- write on trade issues under the programme affiliation and receive feedback/guidance from the programme manager and fellow team members

As we re-launch the programme with new Team Members, we strongly encourage applications from all MOs in order to reflect a truly diverse team that not only represents the international spirit of IFLRY but also the global nature of trade.

To apply:

Send the following documents to office@iflry.org

- a CV (optional)
- a short motivation letter (max. 250 words) outlining your interest in the programme and how you think you can contribute to making it a success
