

Call for Participants

Training of Trainers

Online Edition

Dear friends,

It is our great pleasure to invite you to participate in the online edition of our Training of Trainers, which will be held during the first half of October 2020 (the exact schedule will be communicated asap)

Amidst the pandemic caused by COVID-19, we proceed transforming our activities into online and hybrid formats. During this ongoing process, IFLRY is not only providing continuous educational opportunities to our members and friends, but also evolves as an organization to a new stage of more versatile, inclusive and flexible activities. One of the main pillars for this task will be the IFLRY Pool of Trainers, which is, like IFLRY, constantly developing.

That's why this year's Training of Trainers will not only be held completely online, but also focused on experiences, best practices and ideas on how to develop and conduct exceptional online seminars and trainings.

A group of internal and external experts will share their knowledge with you and introduce new concepts of online and hybrid activities as well as skills needed to conduct them. This training also serves as the base for your participation as a trainer in future IFLRY seminars.

While we know that this training will happen during the first half of October, the exact schedule depends on the field of participants (and their time zones) and therefore will be announced as soon as we have a better overview of potential participants. Early applications are therefore recommended so that we can accommodate for your time zones!

The series will consist of several online sessions. The duration of the sessions is between 90 and 120 minutes per session and might include some preparatory work in between the sessions, such as readings or assignments.

The deadline for applying is: Friday 25 of September. As mentioned above, early application is highly recommended.

Applicants must register through our online form by following this link.
